

HEADING

The Beatles in Obertauern

SUBHEADING

Music history in the snow

SHORT TEXT

In March 1965, Obertauern became a film location for the Beatles. The Fab Four filmed winter and skiing scenes for "Help!" here, leaving traces that can still be found in the village and ski area today.

TEXT

Four musicians, snow-covered slopes and a film seen around the world: when the Beatles came to Obertauern to film "Help!", the winter sports destination became the setting for a special chapter in music history. The reliable snow conditions were ideal for filming. Residents doubled for the skiing scenes.

The Beatles also created an unforgettable moment away from the film set: they gave an impromptu concert at what was then Hotel Marietta, their only performance in Austria. Today, three monuments commemorate their visit and invite you to explore Obertauern in the Fab Four's footsteps.

HARD FACTS

- Visit and filming: March 1965
- Film: "Help!"
- Residents acted as doubles for the skiing scenes
- Impromptu concert at what was then Hotel Marietta
- Beatles monuments: by the Kirchbühellift, at the Grünwaldkopfbahn mountain station and in front of Hotel Edelweiss