

Interesting facts about Obertauern

The Beatles in Obertauern

In 1965, the Beatles filmed winter and ski scenes in Obertauern, dubbed by some locals. By this time, the Beatles had already mastered many things, but skiing was not one of them. The reason for choosing Obertauern was apparent: guaranteed snow and still white slopes when other ski resorts had to switch to grass skiing.

The Beatles loved it in Obertauern. Ultimately, they even got carried away with a more or less secret private concert in a hotel. In any case, they created another skiing boom and all the world and his wife wanted to come skiing by now at the latest. Obertauern developed magnificently due to its exceptional location. And this location is truly magnificent – surrounded by ski slopes on both the south and north sides, Obertauern was already known as the "snow bowl."
